Opinion

Order, Supreme Court, New York County (Arlene P. Bluth, J.), entered September 18, 2020, which, to the extent appealed from, granted defendants Greenwich Insurance Company and Hudson Excess Insurance Company's motion to dismiss the complaint based on documentary evidence and denied plaintiff's cross motion for leave to amend the complaint to name an additional plaintiff, unanimously modified, on the law, solely to declare that defendants Greenwich Insurance Company and Hudson Excess Insurance Company have no duty to defend or indemnify plaintiff with respect to the action brought against it by the Keyes Law Firm, LLC (Keyes), and otherwise affirmed, without costs.

liability insurance policies, defendants were required to defend and indemnify it in a federal action brought against it and related law firms and attorneys by Keyes. Keyes asserted causes of action for an accounting, declaratory judgment, breach of contract, unjust enrichment, a constructive trust, and negligence, seeking to recover contingency fees withheld in violation of fee-sharing joint representation agreements between Keyes and plaintiff's predecessor firm, Napoli Bern Ripka Shkolnik, LLP (NBRs). Keyes' negligence cause of action was premised on alleged false representations made by Napoli, Bern, and NBRs to Keyes.

Review of the complaints in Keyes action and the relevant policies reveals that there was no possible factual or legal basis on which Greenwich Insurance Company and Hudson Excess Insurance Company could have eventually been obligated to *811 indemnify plaintiff in the Keyes action (see Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co. v. Terk Tech. Corp., 309 A.D.2d 22, 763 N.Y.S.2d 56 [1st Dept. 2003]; see also Automobile Ins. Co. of Hartford v. Cook, 7 N.Y.3d 131, 137, 818 N.Y.S.2d 176, 850 N.E.2d 1152 [2006]; Town of Massena v. Healthcare Underwriters Mut. Ins. Co., 98 N.Y.2d 435, 443, 749 N.Y.S.2d 456, 779 N.E.2d 167 [2002]). The Keyes action was premised on actions taken by plaintiff as a business, not in its professional capacity as a law firm. To the extent that the first and second amended complaints alleged that plaintiff committed malpractice or fraud in its handling of clients' cases, those "shotgun" allegations were insufficient as no cause of action was premised on those facts (see Atlantic Mut. Ins. Co., 309 A.D.2d at 22, 763 N.Y.S.2d 56). Although the first and second amended complaint asserted a negligence cause of action, that theory of recovery was not based on the allegations relating to malpractice or fraud. Because the declaratory action was resolved on the merits, the proper course was to declare in favor of defendants, not dismiss (see Maurizio v. Lumbermens Mut. Cas. Co., 73 N.Y.2d 951, 954, 540 N.Y.S.2d 982, 538 N.E.2d 334 [1989]).
